Angry Accused Red Is Ejected

WASHINGTON, July 19 (A)-Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) went back to hunting Communists today, presiding at a brief but lively hearing

1. Charles Wojchowski, who works at the Allis Chalmers plant in Boston, was ejected after making some references to "stool pigeons and informers.'

2. Lawrence W. Parrish, an employe of the Bethlehem Steel Co. at Quincy, Mass., was excused as a witness because the subpoena served on him was meant for another man with a similar name.

3. Two former undercover agents for the FBI ticked off the names of nine industrial workers, including Wojchowski, who they said are Communists or had been members of the party in the past.

McCarthy Back In Chair

It was the first time in four months that McCarthy has presided at a public session of his Senate Investigations subcommittee. He yielded the chair to Sen. Mundt (R-SD) during the McCarthy-Army hearings, in which he was involved as a principal.

Today's leadoff witness was James W. Glatis, who testified he worked his way into the inner circles of the Communist apparatus Cohn Reportedly in the Boston area as an FBI agent. He said he took on the assignment because "I felt I would

Richwood Hard Hit With One Man Dead And Damage Heavy

RICHWOOD, W. Va., July 19 (A) The rain-swollen Cherry River rushed out of its banks today in a surge of destruction that caused at least one man's death and an enormous amount of property damage. The flash flood hit this central West Virginia town in the wake of a torrential rain that fell last night as thunder and lightning ripped the skies.

Four counties, Nicholas, Webster, Braxton and Fayette, were affected by flood conditions.

At Gauley Bridge in Fayette County, the Gauley River leaped apward 5 full feet within 10 minutes at about 1 p.m. It was expected to crest at a point between 5 and 8 feet above flood stage. Man Dies Of Heart Attack

In Nicholas County, Sheriff L. W. Boley said the Gauley was higher than he had seen it in 50 years. State police said the crest of the Cherry River here was 25 feet above flood stage. Two branches of the Cherry were the villains of the disaster in Nicholas County. The lone death reported occurred

Flintstone Man Fined In Court On Motor Count

A 25-year-old Korean war veteran was fined $111.50 yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court on two state motor charges resulting from a weekend traffic accident.

The defendant, Eugene Raymond Routt, of Flintstone, also was ordered held as a parole violator. Magistrate J. Milton Dick said he served five months of a one-year term imposed in Montgomery county for assault.

Routt was remanded to Allegany county jail on the parole count. Police said Routt's auto collided with the car operated by Bertrand A. Mason, 38, of RD 5, Winchester Road. The crash occurred Saturday at Greene and Water Streets. No one was injured but total damage was estimated at $1,200.

Riding with Routt was Kenneth Lough, 18, also of Flintstone, who forfeited $5 in Police Court on

Peace For Trieste Appears Imminent

Italy's Foreign Minister Piccioni has told parliament that a solution of the Trieste dispute is imminent, and Ambassador Claire Boothe Luce has made a similar announcement in Washington. In this case, imminent really seems to mean imminent. Conclusion of a Trieste agreement, Piccioni said, "will not take weeks or months."

If an agreement is indeed concluded within days, it will mean the end of nine years of wrangling and the culmination of long months of patient behind-thescenes negotiations. In the Italian peace treaty, the Big Four finally agreed to internationalize Trieste under a governor not agreed on anything. Russia vetoed every governor the Big Three favored, and when the Big Three finally offered to accept a man previously named by Russia, Molotov had second thoughts and vetoed him, too. When an effort was made to have the United Nations name a governor. Russia blocked that.

Since then the Big Three have been trying to get a Trieste settlement without Russia's consent. The issue actually involves only Italy and Yugoslavia, whose troops now occupy the two divisions of Trieste territory. In early 1948, the Big Three proposed to give the whole area to Italy-not a very practical proposal, since Yugoslav troops would never have departed peacefully. A few months later Yugoslavia and Russia became enemies, and the scheme was

Nine months ago, Britain and the United States announced that they were withdrawing their occupation from the Italian zone and that Italian troops would replace them. Yugoslavia muttered threats, but that was all. This put the two countries on equal terms with respect to de facto occupation, and made possible a settlement in which each side sensibly recognizes that the other will hold on to what it has. There are to be minor frontier adjustments, that is

But the agreement will be very important. For one thing, both sides are to agree that the settlement is to be permanent: no more recidivism by either. This opens the way to Italian adherence to the Greek-Turk-Yugoslav defensive alliance, and to Italian ratification of EDC. It is hoped that the promise of an agreement doesn't turn out to be a false alarm.

These Days

Racial Liberation

I am often asked why it is that the people of Asia succumb so readily to the Marxists. To many Westerners, it is unbelievable that the peoples of the East, concerning whom Europeans often hold fantastic views, should accept the materialistic, atheistic notions of Marxism.

Before one attempts to analyze this inquiry, it is necessary to ask, what is meant by the people of any country. China, for instance, is a polyglot nation of many different races; Indochina is the same; so are India, Indonesia, Malaya, even the Philippines. In a word, no nation in the east of Asia, except Japan and Mongolia, consists of a racially homogeneous people. Often these various races dislike each other and fight each other whenever no strong power exists to prevent them from fighting each other.

Linguistically each country in the east of Asia is full of tongues. There are a few lingua franca such as Mandarin Chinese or Hindi or in some areas English or pidgin English, but except for the educated classes, most people speak local languages or local dialects. One of the principal struggles in every nationalist movement in each of these countries has been to find a language that could be used as a com-

Of course, the written languages tend to be stabilized and are so in Chinese, in Sanscrit, in Arabic and in other literary languages. Those who can read have the advantage of the written word but in all these countries, illiteracy is very high. That does not mean that the illiterates do not know what is going on. In every tea house, in every place where people gather, there are those who lecture and speak and pass gossip. Nowadays, radio also has, to an extent, been established, under government

This lack of homogeneity is emphasized by localismassociation with the smallest geographic or political unit. A man will speak of himself as belonging to Canton or Madras rather than to China or India. Localism is so deeply ingrained that pride in a village is greater than pride in the nation. The nationalism of the past half century has been a struggle against localism with a varying degree of success, depending upon education. Although I cannot know what the Communists are doing about localism, my estimate would be that they are emphasizing it, as they have done in Russia, because on the principle of divide and conquer, it strengthens their power. They now use the term, self-determination, to describe this trend.

On one point, the whole of Asia, is united and this unity crosses all racial, linguistic and religious differences, and that is the universal antagonism to the "White Man" who came to their countries by the sea. He came as a conqueror to take their lands and to govern them. He exploited them economically, often to their advantage as well as his, but he introduced innovations which were resented. His social system was different from theirs and often was offensive, particularly in sex relations. He set himself up as a class apart, almost as a caste, antagonizing the local upper classes by his assumptions of superiority and never winning over the lower classes who regarded him as an ill-mannered upstart. "White" superiority never established itself among Asiatics, as, for instance, the recognized superiority of the scholar.

The Russians did not come to any Asiatic country by sea. Theirs was a slow infiltration and assimilation over centuries. Many Russians are of Tatar, Turkish and Mongol origin. For instance, in 1923, the Russian ambassador to China was Leo Karakhan. His name is Asiatic, of Turkish-Mongol origin. The Russians readily intermarried with natives, not having any sense of race prejudice. (This was as true in czarist as in Soviet times.) The Russian does not gag on native foods. Many of his social habits are not unlike those of natives. (To a degree, the same can be said about the German, who was the least unpopular of Europeans.)

Opposition to the "White Man"-and the Russian was never included in this category—is the unifying force in Asia which the Communists are using to their advantage. No Western country has, as yet, devised any propaganda to offset this. To it the Communists have given the word, "liberation," and nothing that has thus far been done by the West has lessened the unifying force of this word.

France Agrees To Join EDC In Return For American Support In Indochina

WASHINGTON - U. S. policy regarding Indochina has flip-flopped almost as rapidly as John Foster Dulles has shuttlecocked across the Atlantic. However, out of these trans-Atlantic trips and the latest Dulles report to President Eisenhower the following policy now seems in vogue:

To some extent, we are back in somewhat the same position regarding Indochina as last April when Vice President Nixon warned that we might have t send American troops to Indochina.

Reason is that we have now made a definite commitment to back up France in the Indochina War if the Reds keep on fighting. Though we have talked about this in the past we have never made such a commitment before.

What happened was that Premier Mendes-France told Dulles that if the Unite! States wanted a stiff no-surrender policy in Indochina we would have to share the responsibility. Dulles agreed. He also agreed to a line partitioning Indochina. But most important of all, he agreed to back France allout if the Reds Jon't accept a reasonable line.

Simultaneously, Dulles became convinced that Mendes-France was a sincere patriot, was trying to salvage stability from the political instability of France. Finally, Dulles got an extremely important pledge from the French premier - name-

Senate Inventor

Sen. Ralph Flanders of Vermont was visited by many of his Republican colleagues last week who pleaded with him not to put the Republican party on the spot by a vote on McCarthy. Among those who called on him were Senators Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Ives of New York, and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

The Vermonter, who has spent all his li'e as an engineer-industrialist, remained adamant. He even outlined to senators the speech he planned to make and told them that he was thinking of releasing the speech 24 hours in advance so newspapers could publish it in advance of delivery. His idea, he explained, was so that senators could read his speech before the debate opened and would have a chance to understand it.

After years of hugging the klieg lights, he now goes out the back door to avoid TV cameramen.... This is because publicity advisers have warned Joe that his personality came over badly on TV, that he had better keep out of the limelight for the time being. . . . The man who worked hardest to roll up a solid GOP front against consideration of the Flanders anti-McCarthy resolution was Michigan's shaggy Homer Ferguson. Homer had announced publicly that he didn't want McCarthy to come to Michigan to campaign for him; thus he would be in a bad position if he now voted for Mc-Carthy. That was one reason he told Flanders: "If you insist on bringing up your motion I'll have to vote with you, but please don't bring it up.".... Under the nodebate rule which Ferguson and the GOP Policy Committee have now endorsed, the Flanders motion will merely be tabled - without debate. That was why the senator from Vermont changed his motion to remove McCarthy as chairman of the senate investigating committee and substituted a motion of censure.... It was only a few weeks ago that Majority Leader Knowland made a speech proposing the right to remove Senate committee chairmen when they didn't cooperate. His speech was then aimed at Langer of North Dakota. Now that a resolution is on the Senate floor to remove Mc-Carthy as chairman, Knowland has changed his mind.

"That's a unique idea," exclaim-Runes And Realities

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

While the world waits for the outcome at Geneva, it is already time to face the central fact in the American situation. Whatever happens to Indochina, the foreign and defense policies of the last 18 months just have not worked.

"Liberation"-"Recaptured Initiative" - "The New Look" -"Massive Retaliation!" It is downright unkind, nowadays, to recall these optimistic catchwords, which have turned out to have no more practical value than on old country-woman's runes to cure warts. No one has been liberated. There is hardly a region in the world where the Kremlin does not have the initiative. The New Look has turned out to mean the new weakness. And after all the talk of massive retaliation, no serious and decisive effort has been made to prevent an Asian Munich.

There are a few hopeful patches, to be sure, here and there in the picture. Guatemala is a gain. Things are better in Iran. Maybe there will be settlements soon between the Italians and Yugoslavs at Trieste, and between the British and Egyptions at Suez. These situations, that were acutely dangerous, are not so dangerous any longer; and in all these cases American diplomacy has helped to make the danger less. But these local gains have not in anyway counteracted the fundamental and all-important tendency. of which the anxious conference at Geneva is only a symbol. With increasing speed, with gathering momentum, the world balance of power is tilting in favor of the Kremlin and against the West. This immense process, which is nowhere being effectively checked, has taken three different forms to

Smashing Kremlin Victory

First, there are the developments in Indochina, which only Sir Winston Churchill has had the honesty to describe as a smashing victory for the Kremlin, Maybe, at Geneva, the Communist negotiators will carry their arrogance too far. Maybe the Western Allies will nerve themselves to fight at last, because they have been denied even the minimum of face-saving that is regarded as indispensable. As these words are written, no one can tell. Yet the outlook, certainly, is for an Asian Munich, followed by an Asian guaranteed Poland in the form of the projected South Asia Defense Community. The so-called containment policy may have been static, undynamic, and the other bad things people said about it. Yet even static containment would be better than the passive sacrifice of strategically vital Indochina with all its inevitable repercussions in the rest of Asia.

Second, there is the rapid growth of the air-atomic power of the Soviet union, so symbolized by the Soviet A-and H-bombs, and the new Soviet long-range bombers, the TU-37 and TU-39. Since the war, our only major military effort has been and still is, the decisive American air-atomic superiority. But that asset is being rapidly neutralized; and no replacement is in Third, there is the powerful disintegrating influence of this growth of Soviet air-atomic power. For example, the British have done everything they could to encourage a Munich-like settlement in Asia, simply because they fear an Asian war may turn into a world war, and because they know that the British Isles are already exposed perhaps to break up the Western Alliance. Basic Realities

It is on the cards, furthermore, that the unfavorable shift of the world power balance will produce other, intensely unpleasant results in the fairly near future. A Communist triumph in Indochina will prepare the way for other Communist triumphs elsewhere in Asia. And in two or three years, when this country is exposed to total destruction in the way that Britain is exposed already, American policy will also begin to be enfeebled by the consciousness of

For insisting on these realities. these reporters have sometimes been called excessively gloomy, But today, there is no competent policy maker in the Eisenhower administration who bothers to deny that these are the realities, at any rate when speaking with the frankness that privacy permits. The shift of the world power balance in the Kremlin's favor is now freely acknowledged, among those who know the facts. Their knowledge of that shift, and their fears of its consequences. drove Adm. Radford. Secretary Dulles and Vice President Nixon to argue hard but unsuccessfully for a bolder American policy in Indochina. The fact of the shift was admitted by implication in the remarkable speech by Adm. Carney, in which he pointed to the two roads ahead for America, and warned that the easy road would lead to utter ruin.

But with the sole exception of Adm. Carney, no leader of the administration has as yet ventured to speak very much of the truth in public. We are reaching the position of the British in the last years of Neville Chamberlain, but we do not even know about itwhich makes it all the worse.

Resolution Against McCarthy Raises Many Questions

duct unbecoming a member of the United States Senate" and what is meant by "contrary to Senate traditions" and what is "conduct that tends to bring the Senate into disrepute":

These phrases, contained in a resolution sponsored by Senator Flanders of Vermont, Republican, could, if properly investigated, take many weeks of hearings and would make a vivid television show because hardly a member of the Senate could satisfy any other member as to what is or is not 'unbecoming' especially if grabbing headlines and publicity is hereafter to be regarded as taboo. Senator Flanders, who has proposed the condemnation of Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, Republican, for his "conduct" as chairman of the Subcommittee on Government Investigations, has been getting a lot of publicity himself in recent days by his personal attacks on and innuendoes about the Wisconsin senator. Mr. Flanders as a senator has a right to do this and anybody introducting a resolution to censure the Vermonter for these stunts on radio and television would be acting "contrary to Senate traditions" because there is no limitation on a senator's efforts to try to get publicity or to smear anyone or to discuss any subject whether or not it is pertinent.

Wilson's Statement Cited The Vermont senator is quoted, for example, as saying that it is no business of the Senate Committee on Government Operations to investigate the presence of foreign spies in private industry as this has nothing to do with governmental operations. It must have been a misquotation because just a couple days ago the secretary of defense was telling the Senate Armed Services Committee that the Defense Department was badly in need of legislation on this very point as many contractors, engaged in defense projects, couldn't fire employes suspected of espionage without involving themselves in all sorts of legal complications. As for the "conduct" of a senator, many things might be cover- stacked like dirty dishes on the ed by that vague phrase. The core cook's night out.

of the issue, however, is the expression of views or opinions that are unpalatable to other senators. It is the essence of good liberalism that a man should not be punished merely for the expression of his political views. If the "censure" resolution technique is to become customary, then every time a senator doesn't like the views expressed by a chairman of a committee he can introduce a resolution and presumably get a vote on whether the "conduct" of that chairman is or is not "unbe-

Also, if the "censure" idea is carried to its logical conclusion, then there can be offered a resolution of "condemnation" any time a group of senators from certain states dislike what the people of other states do in electing certain men to the Senate. Thus the Senate might find itself asked to resolve solemnly that the people of the State of Wisconsin-or even the people of Vermont-are to be censured for sending to the Senate anybody who doesn't accept the political concepts of the other sen-

In another type of petit mal, the muscles give way and the individual falls to the ground. This happens so rapidly, many become unconscious before striking the floor or sidewalk. A third type is characterized by sudden jerking of the head and arms. These spasms may be severe and occasionally involve the muscles of the trunk and legs as well. Daily Bridge Lesson

VITAL IN THE LEXICON ONE OF the truly vital words in the lexicon of bridge is "tenace." Derived from the Latin "tenere," to hold, it signifies a combination of cards which has a greater potential value if you hold on to it while either leading toward it or having the opponents do so. Among the various types, the ace-queen is called a "major tenace," the king-jack a "minor tenace," the ace-queen-ten a "double tenace," the ace-jack an "imperfect tenace," a guarded ace opposite a guarded queen a "combination tenace," and single honors below the ace are said to be | trump for ruffing set it up. in "tenace" position because

City To Confer With SRC On Traffic Plan

Decision Deadline Deferred To Aug. 9

The Mayor and Council will dis cuss the crosstown expresswa plan Thursday at 10 a. m. with the Maryland State Roads Commission which has agreed to defer the deadline for a city decision on the program until August 9. The delay in the formal action and plans for the conference were made at the request of the Mayor and Council yesterday after several members questioned whether sufficient data was available to make a decision by next Monday. In the executive session before yesterday's regular meeting, Finance Commissioner John J. Long said he had had many calls from people both for and against the bridge who said they did not have dequate information. Long proposed to contact the SRC and request the postponement until council and citizens acquire and assimilate all information about the expressway plan. He said, as finance commissioner, "I must have the complete cost picture before I will feel qualified to vote
